

Try to get out of the pockets of the station owners for a minute or two, Michael. You may be trying to prove you're the sleeziest member of your family -- a daunting task; but, please, remember tat you're supposed to be representing the best intersts of the American public. That includes future generations that may have to clean up the crap you're left behind after all your short-term, political hacking with our public property. Principles aren't only defined by wallets!
